

Different models produce distinct 2031 transition footprints under identical scenario targets

